ELANVITTO by Razal

ELANVITTO by Razal charts a quiet, sculpted palette at BFW Day One

At the 27th edition of Bangalore Fashion Week, ELANVITTO by Razal turned to fluid tailoring, soft drape and muted neutrals. The looks moved between ivory, sand and black with a restrained, polished finish.

BENGALURU, 15 OCTOBER 2026 — ELANVITTO by Razal's Day One showcase at the 27th edition of Bangalore Fashion Week was defined by a calm, pared-back palette and a disciplined sense of shape. Across the selection, the collection held to ivory, champagne, sand and black, allowing silhouette and surface to carry the mood.

A soft off-shoulder dress in pale ivory set the tone with its fitted bodice, gently flared hem and delicate gathered sleeve detail. The fabric sat close to the body before easing into movement, giving the look a composed, feminine line. Bare sandals kept the styling light and unforced.

Elsewhere, the collection moved into elongated shirt dressing and fluid separates. A long, cream-toned shirt with a relaxed collar and easy drape was paired with a skirt-like lower layer that caught the light as it walked. The effect was polished but unhurried, with the garment construction kept visible rather than overworked.

A monochrome sand look introduced a more structured register. The top was cut close to the torso with a tied neckline detail and a softly folded front, while the skirt fell in a narrow, column-like line. The overall finish was sleek, with the neutral tone lending the look a sculptural quality.

The collection also worked with contrast through a cape-like ivory layer set over black trousers. The draped upper piece fell from the shoulders in a clean sweep, creating movement against the sharper line of the trousers below. Across the showcase, ELANVITTO by Razal stayed within a restrained vocabulary of fluidity, tailoring and muted colour, shaping a modern wardrobe with quiet precision.
